

August 16, 2019

To Whom It May Concern,

As a full-time Assistant Professor and Co-Academic Program Director of the Bachelor of Science in Information Technology Management (BSITM), in the Department of Engineering and Computing at National University, I have the responsibility of staffing and maintaining a quality program that prepares our students for real world employment opportunities.

One of the adjuncts I rely on is Deborah Dotson. Deborah displays a high degree of integrity, responsibility, and ambition in the classroom. Her vast working knowledge and experiences makes her an invaluable part of our teaching team. Students at National University attend very fast paced, one-month courses. Flexibility and organizational skills from our educators are vital to a successful student experience. Of the adjuncts I have hired, scheduled, and evaluated, Deborah is one of the most consistent regarding quality and positive student feedback. She is an ideal self-motivated, well-rounded educator, with excellent communication skills. Deborah's feedback about the classes she has reviewed has prompted course material changes that have created a more industry standard curriculum.

Deborah will excel in any position for the educational department that is insightful enough to acquire her. If you would like to speak with me further, please do not hesitate to contact me via email.

Sincerely,

Debra A. Bowen

Debra Bowen, PhD, PMP
Assistant Professor
Department of Engineering & Computing (DOEC)
National University College of Professional Studies
(858) 309-3527 | dbowen@nu.edu